The Wildcat Mountain Ramblers

Based in San Jose, the Wildcat Mountain Ramblers play over 100 shows a year at festivals, wineries, breweries and public celebrations. Audience participation, dancing and overall fun is encouraged. The core of the band, since 2001, has been Robert Cornelius (banjo), Suzanne Suwanda (bass), and Jim Lewin (guitar). They have so many friends that the remaining pickers who join the band vary, depending on where they're playing.

Known for their seemingly bottomless repertoire, they specialize in Bluegrass Gospel music and often feature Nevada's own Randy McKnight on mandolin.
